Foreword

Beginning with the 1969 Mennonite Yearbook you will find a new continuing feature in the Ministerial Directory for the Mennonite Church. In the past we had published every five years a list of birth and ordination dates for the ordained body in the church. In this issue you will find these dates at the end of each entry of the ordained person in the Ministerial Directory. We intend to keep this feature up to date in succeeding issues as new ordinations occur. If there are dates missing, it is because we did not have them. We would deeply appreciate these persons sending in the proper dates to be included in the 1970 issue.

This year we have included in the alphabetical listing of the Ministerial Directory of the Mennonite Church the ministers from the Conservative Mennonite Church. Thus a separate listing of Conservative Mennonite Conference ministers does not appear.

The "Special Days for the Years, 1969, 1970" have been selected by the Committee on Coordination of Church Program and are considered the ones in which special emphases and programs may be planned throughout the church.

Except for a few other minor changes the 1969 Mennonite Yearbook remains the same in general form as that of 1968. Statistical data have been updated by the various conferences, organizations, and institutions. We are especially appreciative to all for the fine cooperation and support that the various officers and statisticians have given. Although the Mennonite Yearbook consists mainly of names, numbers, organizations, and institutions, behind this information is the church at work in our world today attempting to carry out its commitment to Christ and His Word.

The Mennonite Church, 1969

BY HOWARD J. ZEHR
Executive Secretary of Mennonite General Conference

For the sixtieth time a Yearbook is being prepared which provides a wealth of helpful information on the life and program of the body of believers known as the Mennonite Church. The painstaking efforts of a number of persons were required to provide this service. Special recognition is due the Executive Editor, Ellrose Zook, and his assistants for the faithful work of carefully gathering and compiling these facts and figures for presentation to the church in this organized and condensed form.

The Mennonite Yearbook is more than mere statistics. These statistics reflect life and service. It is recognized that they cannot tell the whole story, for the quality of life and relationship of the more than 100,000 members representing the Mennonite Church cannot be contained in reports, charts, and figures. Eternity alone can record and evaluate the significant impact of the daily activity and witness given by these thousands of persons whose names never appear in the pages of this annual publication. I hereby give recognition to these hosts of persons who are really responsible, to a great degree, for that life and service which makes possible the statistics of this 1969 Yearbook.

In this brief introductory article I shall endeavor to give a brief overview of the Mennonite Church as of January 1969.

Structural Study in Progress

A great amount of time and energy is being invested in the careful evaluation and study of church structure. The rapidly changing situations which surround us call for new structure forms. The former structures served well in their time, but the drastic changes which have taken place in our society are challenging the church to new approaches, and new approaches require new channels for expression. The Study Commission on Church Organization worked diligently during the past year, and has projected a very full schedule of meetings for the first half of 1969 with the intention of presenting a model of church organization to the biennial meeting of Mennonite General Conference in August of this year. An attempt is being made to better understand and articulate the church program, and to propose structures which will most adequately carry forth that purpose.

MENNONITE GENERAL CONFERENCE

Plans are being projected for the next biennial session of Mennonite General Conference to be held in Aldersgate Park near Turner, Oregon, just across the highway from where the session was held in Oregon in 1937 (the only time a session of Mennonite General Conference was held on the West Coast to date). The sessions will be chaired by John R. Mumaw, Moderator, and John Drescher, assistant. The report and discussion of the work and proposals of the Study Commission on Church Organization will be one of the major concerns of the delegate body. Various committees of Mennonite General Conference will be bringing reports and projections. Reports will also be submitted by the church's three autonomous boards. The place of meeting and the issues to be brought before the delegate body will make this biennial session a historic meeting. The Commission for Christian Education was brought into being at the 1937 Conference session held near Turner, Oregon, as well as the adoption of the official peace position of the church.

The Witness of Brotherhood (Church Welfare Committee)

The quality of our life and relationships has been a major emphasis of the church during the past year. District conference meetings have given emphasis to some phase of this concern. In many areas of the church a new awareness of the significance of relationships in the church's life and work has emerged, and a realization that the effectiveness of our witness is determined by the quality of our love. The Church Welfare Committee has given serious thought to ways and means of promoting brotherhood relationships and is giving leadership in initiating programs to achieve this objective. The Church Welfare Committee carries concern for the unity of the brotherhood, and of the body of Christ.

Reconciliation and Social Concern (Committee on Peace and Social Concerns)

The year 1968 demanded serious thought of the Mennonite Church in relation to the social ills of our world. The eruptions in our urban centers, the escalation of war in Vietnam, the assassination of nationally known leaders, and the increasing unrest in our society have demanded the church's response. The Committee on Peace and Social Concerns has endeavored to give leadership to the church in the understanding of these problems, and the proper Christian response. The committee has attempted to keep the conscience of the church sensitive to what it means to be the reconciling body of Christ in a world of chaos.

Christian Education (Commission for Christian Education)

An obedient church requires a vital and regular teaching and nurture program. The Commission for Christian Education cooperates with the Curriculum Development Department of the Mennonite Publishing House in providing assistance to congregations in curriculum and materials. Special leadership courses are being prepared each year along with the regular materials for Sunday morning and Sunday evening nurture occasions. A special congregational life series is in process which will help congregations study together their life and work as a body of Christ in the community. A special series of lessons was offered during the spring of 1968 replacing the regular Uniform Sunday School series on "Peacemakers in a Broken World." A series of workshops was sponsored throughout the conference districts to assist Sunday school teachers and leaders to find effective ways of teaching these lessons on the ministry of reconciliation. This was a cooperative project involving the Commission for Christian Education, Mennonite Publishing House, the Committee on Peace and Social Concerns, and the Relief and Service Department of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities.

Arthur Smoker, Jr., a seminary graduate of the spring of 1968, was asked to serve the church as Director of Youth Ministry. He succeeded Willard Roth on June 1, 1968. The youth ministry is being viewed as a vital part of the total ministry of the church, and as an essential part of congregational life. Effort is being made to integrate youth ministry into the total ministry of the church and coordinate it with other church activities.

Worship (Worship Committee)

At its last biennial meeting, the Mennonite General Conference decided to focus concern during the 1969-71 biennium on the gathered life of the congregation, highlighting the importance of what we do together in our church meetings. The Worship Committee is furnishing leadership in this area. Special seminars will be sponsored during the next year to help leadership direct congregations in a serious study of the meaning of worship and what God's people do together in their meetings in order to prepare them for their mission in the world. The new Mennonite Hymnal, prepared under the direction of this committee, will be ready for release at the sessions of the General Conference in August. A special worship service is being prepared for the occasion.

History and Research (Historical and Research Committee)

The Mennonite Church values its history. The Historical and Research Committee has had a full-time executive officer who also serves as the church's archivist. Melvin Gingerich, who has given outstanding service in this capacity, entered upon retirement December 31, 1968. His successor is being sought. He will continue to give supervision to the work of the archives and the Historical and Research Committee until his successor is appointed. A Subcommittee on Research, with a representative from Mennonite General Conference and each of the church's three major boards, has been established to give additional leadership in current research. An extensive youth research project has been implemented through this committee with Paul Lederach as director.

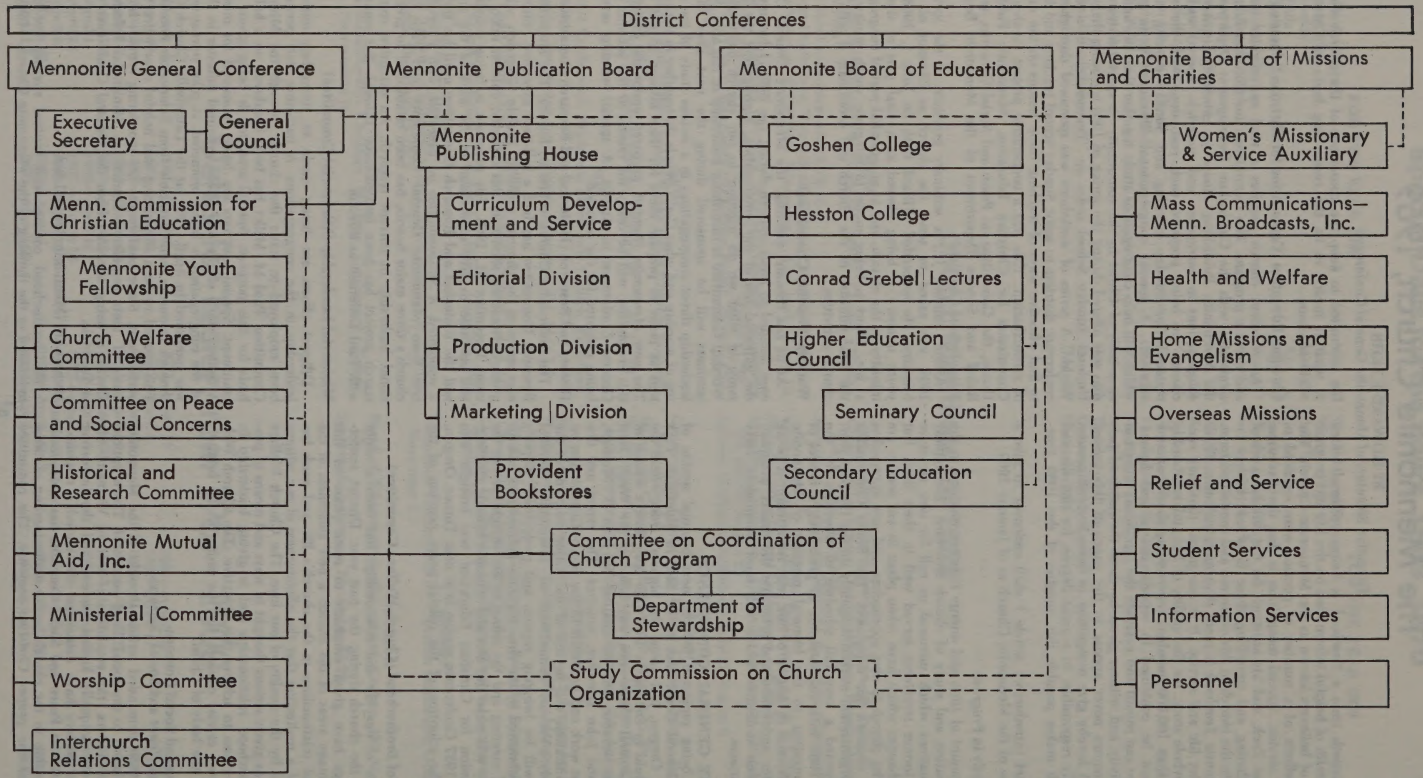
Ministerial Leadership (Ministerial Committee)

Diligent efforts are being made to strengthen ministerial leadership in the congregations. A part-time staff person has been employed to serve the church through the Ministerial Committee. Paul M. Miller has been employed on a half-time basis for this purpose. Special attention is being given to recruitment. Special seminars are being sponsored for ministers. A serious study of the role of the ordained minister in the life of the congregation is being promoted. A pilot retreat-seminar was sponsored in April, 1968, at the Laurelville Church Center through resources made available from Schowalter Foundation. This proved to be a stimulating and helpful experience to the participants. Some conferences are sponsoring retreats for ministers of their respective districts. A Ministerial Information Center is being operated from the General Conference Office at Scottdale.

Mutual Aid (Mennonite Mutual Aid)

The brotherhood concept and mutual sharing are deeply imbedded in the thinking of the Mennonite Church. Many local

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH



The character of relationship varies for different parts of this structure. In general, solid connecting lines represent both a formal subsidiary relationship (downward) and a functional responsibility (upward). Dotted lines represent formal provision for organizational relationship, but with advisory functions only. The dots enclosing the Study Commission on Church Organization represent its ad hoc character.

congregations take seriously their obligations to the needs of the membership. Mennonite Mutual Aid was organized to provide a more formal approach in this concern. It now serves the constituency through six major entities: Mennonite Automobile Aid, Inc.; Mennonite Church Buildings, Inc.; Mennonite Mutual Aid Association; Mennonite Insurance Service, Inc.; Mennonite Retirement Trust; and The Mennonite Foundation, Inc. It has furnished the church a much-appreciated and rapidly growing service.

Interchurch Relations (Interchurch Relations Committee)

The Mennonite Church recognizes itself as a part of the total body of Christ. An ad hoc Interchurch Relations Committee will enter its third biennium of study on July 1. It concerns itself with the many and various possibilities of interchurch activities and their implications for the Mennonite constituency. It is endeavoring to furnish guidance to congregations in relating to other denominations and church groups in the community and to churchwide agencies in their relationship to the variety of possibilities and challenges of interchurch life and activity.

Stewardship (Stewardship Office)

Special emphasis is given to the promotion of the stewardship concept. A staff person gives half time to this concern, and works with a Stewardship Council made up of a representative from each of the conferences. In addition to the promotional aspect of stewardship, assistance is given to congregational and conference leadership in program and budget building.

The giving of the Mennonite Church has been tabulated by the Stewardship Office as follows: The total giving through the church channels was $12,498,519. Less than six percent of this was for education, slightly more than 27 percent for missions, about 57 percent for local ministry, and the balance for other causes. The per-member giving of the Mennonite Church reported at the end of the year 1967 was $135.93. The figures for 1968 are not yet available.

Administrative Office

Mennonite General Conference has its administrative office on the third floor of the Mennonite Building in Scottdale. The office serves as a coordinating resource for all the church agencies. It serves as a point of reference for overall church contacts, administers the program of Mennonite General Conference, and makes field services available to the constituency.

MENNONITE PUBLICATION BOARD

(Submitted by Ben Cutrell)

The denomination organized itself in 1908 for publishing literature to strengthen the faith and life of its members. For sixty years the Mennonite Publishing House, the operating agency of the Publication Board, has been responsible to publish periodicals, books, tracts, and Christian education materials. Even though the work is carried on without financial subsidy from the church, the program is controlled by the church. This is done through Board representatives appointed and elected by district conferences.

During 1968 two new periodicals were launched: With, a monthly magazine for those in the middle teens, and Purpose, a weekly paper for young and old.

Books are published under the trade name of Herald Press. New titles in 1968 were: Let's Talk About Extremism by Edgar Metzler, Helping Your Child to Grow by Edwin and Helen Alderfer, Second Chance by Robert J. Baker, Helping Developing Countries by Carl Kreider, Key to the Prison by Louise A. Vernon, Vietnam: Who Cares? by Atlee and Winifred Beechy, So You're Going to Be Parents by Rhoda Cressman, Introducing the Mennonite Church (revised) by John R. Martin, The Tender Herb by Clara Bernice Miller, A Whisper in a Dry Land by Omar Eby, Meditations for the Expectant Mother by Helen Good Brenneman, Reshaping the Teaching Ministry by Paul M. Lederach, The Christian and Revolution by Melvin Gingerich, The Christian Stance in a Revolutionary Age by Donald R. Jacobs, The Sky Is Falling by Esther Vogt, Worship as the Celebration of Covenant and Incarnation by Alvin Beachy, Pacifism and Biblical Nonresistance by J. C. Wenger, Mennonite Statements on Peace by Richard C. Detweiler, Mennonite Yearbook 1968, Learning to Understand the Mission of the Church by Erland Waltner, Hunger Hurts and A Time for Teaching edited by Willard Roth.

Through seven Provident Bookstores at nine locations the House selects good literature and church supplies from many publishers and retails them to Mennonites and non-Mennonites in the following places: Bloomington, IL; Ephrata, PA; Goshen, IN; Kitchener, Ont.; Lancaster, PA; London, Ont.; New Holland, PA; Scottdale, PA; and Souderton, PA.

The Publishing House employs over 200 persons in its total program. Total annual sales are about $3,500,000.

The Mennonite Publishing House publishes literature to undergird the work of other denominational agencies such as the Historical Committee, the Committee on Peace and Social Concerns, Worship Committee, and Mission Board. It also cooperates with other Mennonite publishers, especially the General Conference Mennonites, in projects of mutual interest. In 1969 the jointly produced Mennonite Hymnal will be released. The revision of primary, junior, and intermediate graded Sunday school materials under joint administration will begin in 1969. New Sunday school materials for kindergarten children are to be available in 1970 after several years of cooperative effort in curriculum development, editorial administration, and publication. Cooperation provides larger audiences which enables the publishers to invest more in the planning and production of the literature. Otherwise, subsidy would likely be needed to carry on the publishing work at the current level.

MENNONITE BOARD OF EDUCATION

(Submitted by Paul Bender)

Both the Christian home and the larger church brotherhood have responsibilities for the education of their children and youth. The congregation contributes to the task of education through its Christian education programs. For formal education in schools, the Mennonite Board of Education carries responsibility for giving general guidance to the church. The Board is in process of reorganizing its structure in order to be more effective in carrying out this role.

Philosophy Study

A Philosophy of Christian Education Study for the Mennonite Church is being carried on cooperatively by the Board of Education and various church agencies involved in education. This project is designed to express our Mennonite educational understandings and to give direction to the various education efforts of the church. The study is being continued during this year.

Elementary and Secondary Schools

Schools operated under Mennonite auspices are responsible under various organizational patterns. About 40 elementary schools are mostly local, with congregation- or patron-based boards. Most of the twelve Mennonite high schools are operated by district conference boards. These high schools serve nearly 20 percent of the approximately 11,000 Mennonite high school students. Nearly all students attending Mennonite high schools commute from their homes.

Colleges

Mennonites sponsor four colleges with differing types of organizational responsibility, either to the Mennonite Board of Education or to various district conferences: Conrad Grebel College in Ontario, Eastern Mennonite College in Virginia, Goshen College in Indiana, and Hesston College in Kansas. The Mennonite Board of Education is active in the coordination of the work of the Mennonite colleges.

The Mennonite colleges enroll about 1,800 Mennonite students, and an additional 700 others. An estimated 1,200 Mennonites are studying in other colleges and universities, with 400 additional in technical education and another 400 in graduate studies. Approximately one third of all Mennonite youth of college age are in some form of higher education. This proportion continues to rise with the increased demands for higher education in our society. The church and its Board of Education are concerned that these young people shall have good educational experiences and opportunities for intellectual and spiritual growth.

In an effort to meet the challenge of Christ for our time, the Mennonite colleges are developing new programs. This year Goshen College has inaugurated its Study-Service Term Abroad, and Eastern Mennonite College is beginning its general education program in Christianity and Civilization. All the colleges are doing extensive planning for the future with the view to providing an effective Christian program for their students.

Seminaries

The Goshen College Biblical Seminary cooperates in curriculum and courses with the Mennonite Biblical Seminary. There is being initiated a new curriculum for the training of ministers, theologians, and other church workers. This curriculum will attempt to deal more vigorously and distinctively with the kinds of understandings central to the Mennonite Church and to its witness to the larger society. The Goshen College Biblical Seminary this year enrolls about 40 full-time students.

The Eastern Mennonite Seminary has this year about 20 full-time students. About half of these are non-Mennonite. The total enrollment has doubled over the previous year. This past fall Eastern Mennonite Seminary initiated a new unified Master of Divinity curriculum.

MENNONITE BOARD OF MISSIONS AND CHARITIES
(Submitted by Boyd Nelson)

A major program of extension and service is carried by the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. This board serves the church in carrying worldwide mission and service programs. It views itself as being in partnership with congregations and the other church agencies in fulfilling the church's mission.

The annual Mission Board meeting of 1968 was held in Kidron, Ohio. The theme of the session was "Adventure in Mission." A major part of the program was contributed by lay leaders.

The 1969 annual meeting of the Mission Board will be held near Kalona, Iowa, on the campus of Iowa Mennonite School July 2-6. The theme of the meeting will be "Believing and Doing." An attendance of 1,000 to 1,100 persons is anticipated.

1. The Home Missions and Evangelism Office subsidizes about 36 programs with financial assistance and counsel in 11 district conferences. Major attention is being given to the needs of the inner city and the emerging forms of church life on university campuses. The Home Missions Office serves as a resource to conference and congregational leaders.

2. Overseas Missions. The Board serves the church with representatives in 17 different overseas mission fields. Several district mission boards are working in an additional three overseas areas. About 234 persons are involved in the Board's overseas mission program. An agricultural program is being developed in the Bihar area as a follow-up of the famine. The program is administered by the Mennonite Central Committee. During the past year because of the political situation all but five workers had to be returned from the Nigeria field. The additional five had to leave the country at a later date. At the time of this writing, workers are again moving back into the Nigeria area in an endeavor to serve in this critical situation.

A major study of leadership training for overseas workers is in process. A new plan to take training to local congregations is emerging. A Bible Institute is being developed in East Hokkaido, Japan. Institutes are being developed in two places in Puerto Rico. For the first time, the Mennonite Church in India is sending students to Yeotmal Seminary.

3. Health and Welfare. More than 20 communities are served through this division with approximately 800 persons. Over 1,000 persons were served through the hospitals operated by the Mission Board during 1968. The Board is currently administering nine general hospitals and 12 retirement, convalescent, or nursing homes. The community of La Junta, Colorado, has assumed responsibility for hospital service in its locality, and has raised more than $300,000 from the community. A $2,500,000 program is underway. A 25th anniversary of medical service through its hospitals is being observed in Puerto Rico this year.

4. Relief and Service. On December 1, 1968, a total of 327 persons were serving through the Voluntary Service Office. The program has been reorganized which now merges the Voluntary Service and Civilian Public Service administration. Effort is being made to integrate the work of Voluntary Service and Home Missions more closely, and to relate more concretely to the local conferences and congregations. During the year 1968 a special Urban Racial Council was established to give attention to the problems of the inner city.

5. Mass Communications. Along with the continuing radio ministry, Mennonite Broadcasts plans to release spot TV programs. This will be done cooperatively with other Mennonite groups.

6. Student Services. The Board continues to give encouragement to the formation of fellowship groups on university campuses.

For the first time, contributions to the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities exceeded the two million dollar mark in 1968. At its last annual meeting, the Board reported having 1,485 full-time persons and 387 part-time persons involved in the mission and service programs.

District Mission Boards

The district conferences also sponsor extension and service programs. Some of these are administered through a separate board and others as an integrated part of the conference program. The Eastern Mennonite Board of the Lancaster Conference has the most extensive program with an overseas program in eleven different countries, and a financial obligation of more than one-half million dollars.

The Conferences

The conferences are most generally referred to as district conferences. These are not necessarily limited to certain geographical boundaries, but have been determined by historical development and leadership. These conferences are being viewed more and more as functional units with the locus of authority placed to a greater degree in the congregation.

The Congregations

The congregations of the Mennonite Church vary greatly in size and nature. The total number reported in 1968 is 1225. The smallest membership reported in any one congregations is less than ten, and the largest more than 800 members. The majority of congregations in the Mennonite Church are less than 100 members. The total membership for 1968 was 110,835.

Mennonite Church Financial "Askings" for 1968-69

By J. J. Hostetler, Secretary of Stewardship Department
Mennonite General Conference

More and more Mennonite congregations are working on budget plans for giving and distribution of their funds. District conferences also set up budgets involving local congregations. In this plan the congregation shares together in a brotherhood way to determine where their gifts and offerings shall be given during the next year.

There are certain fixed amounts needed for the operational costs of the local church. Likewise our churchwide ministries build their program and services on expected receipts. They, too, have fixed costs for the maintenance of facilities, support of workers, and service to people in need. These are our extended ministries of evangelism, missions, training, healing, alleviation of suffering, and the nurture of children, youth, and adults.

The amounts suggested here serve as guides in building congregational budgets. Since many smaller congregations (less than 100 members) often have difficulty in meeting these askings, stronger and larger congregations are encouraged to exceed these amounts. Since these askings have not been increased this year, all congregations are urged to rise to their potential with increased giving.

	Per Member amount needed each year
1. Mennonite General Conference — Provides services by commissions and committees in their work for the church; Christian nurture, youth ministries, peace and social concerns, church welfare, ministerial, stewardship, worship, historical and research, General Council and executive office.	$3.00
2. Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities — Includes foreign and home missions, relief, VS and I-W services, broadcasting, and Health and Welfare.	31.50
3. Higher Education — Includes operating and building funds for Hesston, Goshen, Eastern Mennonite, and Conrad Grebel. (Each congregation distributes its higher education funds to the college in its own area.)	10.00

4. Goshen College Biblical Seminary . . . . . ¢ 2.00
Tuition in a seminary is very low. The seminary must be subsidized in excess of $1,200 per student. This money is used for faculty salaries, library, plant maintenance, and student scholarships.

5. District Conference Needs
The district conference askings are so broad and varied that it is impractical to present them here. Congregations should check with their district conference officers or stewardship secretary for the exact figures for their conference. This figure usually includes the district conference and its mission board, secondary and elementary school (if any), mental hospitals, WMSA, camps, homes for the aged, Christian Workers' Conference, as well as other agencies the district may have.

Each of these churchwide ministries is equally responsible for their part in our missionary task and outreach. Each serves significantly in their respective assignment. Congregational leaders, pastors, and officers are encouraged to consider the "Stewardship for Mission" program in preparation for their annual business meetings and budget planning. Congregations having used this program report spiritual renewal and greater commitments. Write or call your district stewardship secretary for literature and counsel in planning.

An Introduction to Mennonite History

Edited by C. J. Dyck

Here is a history of all the descendants of the Anabaptists found in the Mennonite and Amish groups. This book introduces the reader to the basic historical and doctrinal developments through four centuries of Anabaptist and Mennonite efforts to be the faithful church.

There are chapters in the book entitled: The Mennonites in Russia, The Mennonite Church, The Amish, The General Conference Mennonite Church, The Mennonite Brethren Church, The Smaller Mennonite and Related Groups in North America, and The Continuing Vision.

Here is a book of history that is thorough, yet easy to read. It was prepared as a textbook for use in high schools. It is complete, even includes a four-page index, an Anabaptist-Mennonite family tree, maps, and a chart showing the relationships of the various Mennonite bodies.

If you can purchase only one book on Mennonite history, this is the one to get. It has 400 years of history condensed to 324 pages.

The Mennonite Hymnal in 1969

About forty-two years ago the Church Hymnal was published for our congregations. In August, 1969 The Mennonite Hymnal, a new hymnal produced jointly by the Mennonite Church and General Conference Mennonite Church, should be ready for our congregations. It will contain 640 pages with 649 songs and more than 50 pages of worship aids such as responsive readings, prayers, and the like.

For more detailed information read the article, "The Mennonite Hymnal in 1969," in the September 3, 1968, issue of Gospel Herald. A copy of the main index of the list of songs and tunes will be sent you free by writing to Paul W. Shank, Herald Press, Scottdale, Pa. 15683. We believe when congregations begin to use this new hymnal it will bring a revival of interest in good singing and a deeper experience in worship participation.
